

‘Social media @ work: what’s the big deal?’

explores some of the major risks to Tasmanian State Sector employees using social media... not just at work, but on their home computers and in their personal time as well.

FORMAT OF THE MODULE

The module has four self-paced e-learning components:

1. What is social media?
Introductory video
2. What’s so risky about social media?
Interactive presentation
3. Draw the line online
Interactive presentation
4. Social media in the courts
Interactive presentation

LEARNING OUTCOMES

On completion, participants should be able to:

1. identify the different types of social media;
2. recognise the risks and consequences of social media when it is used, both in the workplace and in their personal time; and
3. effectively control social media settings to increase their online privacy.

- Self-paced, online delivery
- Employees can learn when they want, where they want

AVAILABLE NOW ONLINE THROUGH MOODLE

Contact us to request access for your agency
1300 720 289
mper@integrity.tas.gov.au